IN CIRCUIT COURT.

Thursday the time of the court was taken up with a suit of the Hoeber Land Co. for $300 commission on an alleged sale of W. H. Baker's residence in Sikeston. The Land Co. claimed that they found the buyer, but that Baker refused to make the sale. The jury disagreed.

An amusing case was that of the great State of Missouri against John Stike and his mother, Mrs. Mary Stike. The charges against them were disturbing the peace, Mr. Stike was accused twice and his mother once. It was an echo of the factiousism of John and his mother refusing to dance every time the priest intones, Andy Dierberger was the prosecuting witness. But it seems that when the defendants refused to be tried by a Benton justice and threw the case into circuit court, both the authorities and Mr. Dierberger discovered that if anybody had violated the law, it wasn't the defendants. And they let go as if it were hot, and the cases were nipped. Mrs. Stike is 64 years old and had never been summoned to court. And somebody may have to pay for it on this occasion.

A young man named Everett Reed was in jail charged with forgery. The young man had friends who came to his rescue and a jury set him free. H. H. Bateman of Ripley county, a former citizen of this county, and M. F. Brown of Salcedo, were among those who interested themselves in the boy. They told me that he was a hard worker and had always borne a good reputation. Now, it is a fact that in almost every case where the prisoner is able to secure a lawyer he is freed. This would indicate that most of the people who are jailed are innocent. Have we gone so far along the road to tyranny that innocent people can be deprived of their liberty without recourse?

Ben Whitte of Anceel was another jail bird and was accused of burglary and larceny. He also secured a lawyer and was set free by a jury. He had been in this stuff, hot jail for some time. Yet the good book that all of the courts and lawyers pretend to reverence so highly tells us that "thou shalt not steal." And yet a man can be in jail for a year and not be punished.

These same courts and lawyers are strong on morality. Most of them will tell you that gamblers are free lovers and want to break up the home. An error occurred in last week's account in which I said the case against Frank and Alice Sewell was dismissed. Only the case against Alice was dismissed. Frank pled guilty and was fined $50. About the same time Frank Brown pled guilty to carrying a pistol and was fined $200 and sixty days in jail. Adultery is a Biblical offense, and is said to be against a commandment of God. Carrying a pistol is a statutory offense and is against the commandment of man. To violate God's law costs $200 and to violate Man's law costs $200 and sixty days in jail. But the laws are improving some. The wonder is that the woman was not punished and the man let go.

Sarah M. and T. F. Sewell brought suit for damages against Simon Well. The Sewells claimed that Well had turned the water on them, damaging their farm. The jury didn't see it that way and rendered a verdict in favor of Well.

On the docket there were 21 cases of "breaking up the home," a capitalist institution commonly called divorce. Nearly all of the proceedings were instituted by the wives whose husbands had deserted them. The snare is plainly evident. Quite all are of the working class, who must live poorly. And there can be no happiness amid poverty and hunger.

In matter of road petition of Walter C. Irvin against Nick Brucker and B. L. Pertie, a jury awarded the defendants $350.00 damages for right-of-way.

Everybody that could went home Tuesday afternoon, as the jurors had been excused and court adjourned, Wednesday morning.

FROM ANCELL.

Miss Margie James of Los Angeles, Cal., is here on matters pertaining to a road right-of-way over her land connecting Anceel with Kings Highway. Also a school site for Anceel and the renting of her farm, as Mr. Gilliam has decided to give it up.

Frank Arnold is agent for the Rock Island Plow and Vehicle Co. and says he can save you money on a buggy or wagon. They who have bought thru him are well pleased.

The C. & N. Ry. is operating a steam shovel and dirt train on this end of the road, raising the approach over the government levee.

Frank Grant of Vanduser has rented the James farm and will take possession on the first of August to sow wheat.

R. W. Taylor of Swinton, Stoddard county, was here last week and spent a few hours at the P. E. Daugherty home.

Train loads of soldiers pass thru so often that they have ceased to attract attention.

"Church Sends Men to Army," reads a newspaper headline. Probably for the purpose of teaching the enemy the commandment: Thou shalt not kill!

FROM NEW HAMBURG.

Monday Johnnie Dierberger had finished up threshing wheat. This was the poorest crop ever raised and it would not pay to set the machine for every crop, so the farmers hauled their crops to the neighbors and two or three crops would be threshed at one setting of the machine. It is said Chas. Diebold made 32 bushels of 60 acres, while Sol Diebold made 17 bushels of 12 acres. After Johnnie had finished threshing one man's crop, the man handed him a two dollar bill and asked, "Have you the change?"

The following spent Sunday afternoon with the family of Sol Diebold: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schabbe and little daughter Clara, the Misses Pearl and Bertha Linday and Ollie and Viola Diebold and Ethel Krites of Cape and Miss Vera Brock of Benton. John and Alphonse Schoenhoff, Ed. Lohman, Frank and Alford Hocker, Martin Veidman, Lester Tucker and Peter Lohrum, all of Cape, and Byron Wade of Oran, Lubence Schitt and wife of New York City are here visiting relatives and friends. He is a brother to John and Charles Schitt of this place and Mrs. A. H. Schmitt of Benton. From here they will go to visit his brother August at Bell City.

Two of Peter Enderle's boys of Keosaupe spent a short while with uncle, Joe Westrich, Saturday. They were on their way to Oran to spend Sunday with their uncle, Frank Enderle.

Last week Mike Brucher, Jr., was up in a tree shaking out wild cherries. He lost his hood and fell to the ground, breaking his left arm at the wrist.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bucher on the 7th and was baptized the following day. Anton Hahn and Miss Anna Linhart stood sponsors.

Mrs. Martin Fischer spent Thursday of last week with her daughters, Mrs. George Glaus and Mrs. John Fischer, of near Bleda.

While the corn in the low lands was drowned out by heavy rains, the hill corn will be burned out unless we get rain pretty soon.

Charles Ziegler, Albert Dumey and Willie Hahn left for Daisy, North Dakota, last week to work to work the sugar harvest.

George Dumey and son, Leon, drove a fine bunch of sheep to the landing Saturday, which they shipped by boat to St. Louis.

Frank Messner and the Messes Frieda and Lorena Dumey spent a few days of last week at Buma, Ill., visiting relatives.

Louis Goetz, August Glaus and their wives, Philip and Fred Unterstall attended church at Chaffee, Sunday.

Mrs. Leo Seyer and children spent a few days of last week with her sister, Mrs. John Miller, at Fairfield.

A large crowd attended the dance at Tom Rastberg's Saturday evening, and all report a good time.

Mrs. Willie Dumey left for St. Louis last week to spend a week with her sister, Mrs. Julia High.

Philip Legrand and sister, Miss Theresa, of this place, attended church at Chaffee, Sunday.

Leo and Emanuel Schmitter and Thies Diebold spent Sunday with August and Frank Goetz.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Legrand of Blomeyer spent Sunday with the family of Peter Goetz.

Joe son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Hecker fell from a mule and broke his arm, Friday.

Frank Dumey and family of Anceel Sunday with the John Linhart family.

Joe Morie and wife entertained a large crowd of their friends Sunday.

Mrs. Matt Dumey spent Friday with her daughters at Chaffee.

The farm adviser was here vaccinating hogs last week.

FROM LUXEMBURG.

Sunday a jolly crowd gathered at the home of Albin Martin. Those present were John Enderle, Joe Blattel, Joe Scherer, Tony and Simon Blattel, Joe Seyer, B. J. Enderle, Mr. Lieble, Louis Hahn, Chas. Heuring, Emil Schlosser and their families, Robert Forehove, John Stabler, Thomas and Lovie Ross, Louis Calliott and son. The young folks enjoyed themselves in singing and dancing, while the older ones played cards. In the evening lunch was served to all.

Joe Scherer and son autowed to the Cape one day last week.

Wm. Welter of Anceel spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Welter.

Mrs. Albin Martin and children spent one day this week with Mrs. Wm. Leible and children.

E. J. Ross and wife and baby spent one day this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Ross. Manuel Andrews came over Sunday after his family, who have been with Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Ross the past two weeks.

Mrs. George Glueck and children spent one day of this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Lux.

Joe Welter and wife spent one day of this week at Anceel and returned with a new colt olive. Martin Hilleman is helping E. J. Ross plow corn, on the Drury farm.

Stuck to the unmuzzled Kicker.

FROM ILLMO.

Mrs. Louisa Hilleman accompanied her daughter, Metha, to Tulsa, Okla., where the latter has gone to join her husband.

Ernest Eifer has rented the Mounds farm near Commerce. Martin Rubel and Adolph Hilleman are at Dawson Springs.

Frank Hopke has gone to Tennessee to visit his son-in-law. Rudolph Hilleman of St. Louis was here a few days this week. Mrs. Ben Bruhl has typhoid. Stuck to the unmuzzled Kicker.

FROM ORAN.

Peter Dierberger was run over and killed about two miles below Oran by a Frisco freight train Friday night. Mr. Dierberger was a native of Scott county and formerly in business here. Of late years he has been in business at Risco. He was on a visit and left here on the Friday afternoon train for Risco. It was necessary for him to change cars at Brooks Junction, where he missed his train. He was evidently returning to Oran and had evidently laid down and fallen asleep on the railroad track, with his shoulders on a rail, the body was horribly cut to pieces and sent word here of what had happened. Marshal Spradlin and others went down, gathered the scattered fragments into a blanket and brought them here, where they were buried Saturday in the Catholic cemetery. He leaves a widow who resides in Oran.

Farm Agent Deer is in the community vaccinating hogs. Cholera seems to be raging in the hills east of here and in other parts. Vaccination is a preventive and should be given a fair test not only by a few, but by all the farmers of a community.

Judge Gillespie says he can see a difference between the Republican and Democratic platforms. This peculiarity of being able to see a difference where there is none, may account for his holding the job of justice of the peace.

Threshing is about over and the poorest wheat and oat crop in years are reported. In most cases the crop does not pay expenses.

Leo Pfefferkorn has gone to Chaffee, where he has a position in a bank. His many friends wish him well.

Mrs. Chas. E. Moore, who has been visiting in Jonesboro, Ark., the past week, returned Friday.

Robert Glenn, who has been studying pharmacy in St. Louis, is home on his annual vacation.

Adam Schaefer of Benton and Dr. Clayton of Morley were here Saturday.

FROM BLODGETT.

The remains of Mrs. Jennie Carroll were brought here from Illinois for burial Saturday evening. She died leaving a husband and several children. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery Sunday forenoon.

Contractor Worley left through the floor of the Marshall building Friday and partially skinned his shin. He was very sick for a while.
